An unnamed narrator introduces himself as an "invisible man." He says that he is a real man of flesh and bone, and that he possesses a mind. He also states that he is invisible "simply because people refuse to see me."

Invisible Man Prologue Summary & Analysis | LitCharts

Invisible Man is certainly a book about race in America, and sadly enough, few of the problems it chronicles have disappeared even now. But Ellison's first novel transcends such a narrow definition. It's also a book about the human race stumbling down the path to identity, challenged and successful to varying degrees.

Claude Rains is the only actor in the film whose character is identified in the credits. We are not told which roles the other actors play, even though the cast is listed twice: at the beginning and at the end. Rains is billed as "The Invisible One" in the opening credits and as "The Invisible Man" in the closing credits.
