All graduate students (except those on non-matriculated courses) are members of both a department or faculty and a college or hall. In this section, you can find out more about Oxford's colleges, how to state a college preference in your application and the facilities that are available.

A college degree has never been more important--or more expensive. If you're not made of money, where can you get an amazing liberal arts education without your parents having to remortgage the house or cash in their retirement fund? Which degrees will allow you to fulfill your dreams and earn a decent paycheck? What do you really need to know if you're the first in your family to go to college? How do you find good schools that offer a well-rounded campus life for black or Latino students? From the staff of Washington Monthly comes a new kind of college guide, inspired by and including the magazine's signature alternative college rankings. The Other College Guide features smartly designed, engaging chapters on finding the best-fit schools and the real deal about money, loans, and preparing for the world of work. This essential higher ed handbook also highlights information on what to look for (and watch out for) in online programs and for-profit colleges and concludes with fifty profiles of remarkable but frequently overlooked schools. All things being unequal, The Other College Guide will provide American students--and their families and school counselors--with the honest and practical information they need to make sense of the college process and carve a path to the future they imagine.

A guide to one hundred of America's top schools features descriptions written by attending undergrads from various walks of life, along with vital statistics and requirements for each school and information on the student body, academics, social life, and Provides information for students with learning disabilities and their families to understand the services they need, identify goals, and select an appropriate college to match individual needs.

Describes graduate programs in art, dance, music, and theater, and lists undergraduate programs.

"353 schools with programs or services for students with ADHD or learning disabilities"--Cover.

Offers advice on different options for higher education, how to choose a college, the college application process, and how to decide whether to apply to graduate school.

The "total college experience" is explored in a colorful departure from the dry facts-and-figures summaries in typical college guides.
